Red Rover, Red Rover, Bring Supplies Right Over...

Iowa City's Domestic Violence Intervention Program, DVIP is the only domestic violence program in Iowa with an organized safe pet program. Named Cooper's House, in memory of a DVIP dog, DVIP was awarded a national grant from Red Rover to expand support services on premises. This provides the therapeutic value of families and pets staying together when they are in crisis.

Up to 70% of domestic violence victims report having a pet. Abusers threaten, injure, and at times kill pets to control their victims and create an environment of fear within the home. Approximately 48% of women have refused to leave a dangerous situation for fear of their pets' safety.

Cooper's House is ready, the food pantry is stocked, but the toy cupboard is empty! Join us on Saturday April 28th as we partner with DVIP to stock Cooper's House. We will have generous sales on beds, blankets, toys, treats and health products specifically needed for donation. DVIP staff will showcase Cooper's house and provide information about DVIP. Leash on Life staff will host demos of products helpful for all dogs and cats in times of transition.
